General Atkinson of U. C. V. and Governor Peery Favor Reunion

Past Commander-in-Chief of Confederate Veterans Approves Plan as a "Peace Gesture"; Virginia Governor Says "Final Gathering of Vets Should Be Held."

SEEK INVITATION FROM CONGRESS

Additional endorsements of the proposed reunion of the Blue and Grey in Gettysburg upon the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the battles at Gettysburg, in 1938, were received over the week-end.

General Homer Atkinson, past commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, in a long interview at his home in Petersburg, Virginia, with Paul L. Roy, secretary of the Gettysburg diamond jubilee anniversary committee and representing Senator John S. Rice, chairman of the Pennsylvania state commission for the anniversary observance, and Henry M. Scharf, manager of the Hotel Gettysburg, said he was in favor of one final reunion as " a peace gesture."

The genial past commander of the U. C. V., who is 87 years old, graciously received his northern guests at his home Saturday morning.

Favors Reunion

He said he was happy to discuss the proposed reunion and reminisced on his war experiences and his many contacts with veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic since the four-year struggle of '61-'65.

General Atkinson said he had a high regard for all veterans; that the war between the states never should have been fought and that now all animosity should be wiped away.

"The initial invitation should come from Pennsylvania," said the general. "Then if the federal government is interested a move on their part would be of considerable influence in encouraging the reunion. Gettysburg is the logical place for such a reunion and although many of us will not be able to participate there should be quite a delegation from the north and south. I am personally in favor of the reunion if it is in the form of a peace gesture—a move to cement a closer feeling of fellowship."

Later in the day Governor George C. Peery, of Virginia, in an interview with the Gettysburgians at the executive mansion in Richmond said he was in favor of a Blue and Grey reunion if the Confederate veterans and the Grand Army of the Republic would approve the plan.

Governor Endorses Plan

"Such a reunion should be held," Governor Peery told his visitors. "It would be a splendid thing to bring these veterans together once more before they leave us. They are getting well up in years and growing more feeble each year. If they could be brought together once more it would be a splendid gesture of cordiality and good-feeling. Although I will not be governor of Virginia at that time I would enjoy attending the reunion."

News of the endorsement of the Blue and Grey reunion by General Atkinson and Governor Peery was conveyed to newspaper men at Richmond who received the announcement with enthusiasm. They expressed their approval of a final reunion of northern and southern veterans and lengthy stories of the interviews were carried over the main trunk lines of the Associated Press over the week-end.

Senator Rice Pleased

Senator Rice, who was unable to make the trip into Virginia because of the closing sessions of the Pennsylvania legislature, and who left early Sunday morning for Kansas City and the west coast, was pleased with the encouraging endorsements from the southern gentlemen. Senator Rice said he would seek to have congress pass a resolution calling upon the veterans of the north and south to approve the plan.

Alfred S. Stacey, of Elbridge, New York, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., has expressed his approval of a Blue and Grey reunion.

Lutheran Leaders Ban Bazaars And Church Suppers as Ungodly

Strongest Adams County Denomination Frowns on Tax-Exempt Unit Competing With Restaurants; Limits Fund-Raising to Free-Will Offerings in Report to Synod.

SCHEMES and "rackets" to raise money for the support of Lutheran churches will hereafter be prohibited if a report of a special committee appointed a year ago to study the method of financing churches is accepted at the seventh annual convention of the United Lutheran Synod of New York. The report condemns card parties, dancing and games of chance for raising money and prohibits bazaars and church suppers, says the New York Times.

The report of the special committee, released at the Lutheran Church House, New York city, included recommendations made by the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church in America. This asks that the Lutheran Church "go on record as condemning card parties, dancing, games of chance and all other worldly pleasures for commercial use in supporting the work of the congregation." It would limit church support to "free-will offerings of the people."

"Those responsible for this action had no intention of entering upon the question of the morality of card playing or any other form of amusement, which, according to Lutheran usages, is a matter left to the individual conscience of every Christian," says the board report.

"The matter at issue is clearly one of what constitutes scriptural giving, which is the only approved method in the United Lutheran Church. A search of the Scriptures certainly will not reveal a single phase in support of any commercial method of supporting the religion of Jesus Christ. To argue that there is no difference between church people as a whole doing something that an individual may do as an individual who gives an offering from the proceeds of his labor to the church is entirely beside the question.

"An individual, for instance, engaged in the sale of liquor might personally make an offering which would be accepted possibly by many church councils with a clear conscience because that business has been legalized, but for the church or any group of people in the church or any one person in the name of the church to sell liquor in order to raise money for the support of the church is another matter."

The report declares that the congregation "is organized for a definite purpose, and that does not by the furthest stretch of the imagination include the conduct of any affair for profit."

"For a congregation exempt from taxation on its property with-

STRIKES SPREAD OVER THE NATION

From New England States to The Pacific Thousands Walk Out.

(By Associated Press)

Labor disputes spread sporadically over the United States today.

In New England, the United Textile Workers of America called out its members in mills operated by the Uxbridge Worsted company. Early reports said about 2,800 of the mills' 3,375 employes answered the call. This was the first serious dispute in the frequently turbulent textile industry in New England since the end of the codes.

The union called the strike as a protest against the lowering of code operating standards and to enforce a demand for wage raises.

Four tankers were tied up in a walkout in Boston, Providence, and two in Porth Arthur, Texas.

As an aftermath of the trolley workers' strike in Omaha, Governor R. L. Cochran, of Nebraska, paid no heed to the refusal of non-striking car workers to abide by arbitration. The governor ordered his commission to continue arbitration between officials of the two sides.

In the vast timber country of the northwest, California and Washington national guardsmen were on duty ready to protect lumber mill workers who continued their jobs after some 35,000 other workers answered a strike call of the newly-organized sawmill and timber workers union.

Emory H. Forrest Breaks Leg When Floor Collapses

Two men were injured, one suffering a fracture of the left leg above the knee, and a third escaped unhurt when the floor of a barn on which they were standing collapsed and they fell more than seven feet, at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Emory H. Forrest, aged about 65 years, of 50 York street, the more seriously injured, suffered a fracture of the left leg above the knee, and was taken to the Warner hospital in the Gettysburg ambulance.

Nicholas Redding, West High street, suffered a puncture wound on the right arm at the wrist. He received treatment at the office of a local physician.

George Fitzgerald, Hanover street, escaped injury.

The accident occurred at a barn at the rear of the home of Mr. Forrest on York street. Mr. Forrest, Mr. Redding and Mr. Fitzgerald had started to remodel the barn so that a large truck, owned by Mr. Forrest's son, Frank, could be driven into the place.

The three men were standing on the second floor of the barn when a large girder gave way, and all were precipitated to the first floor.

Mr. Redding's arm struck a spike when he fell and his right arm was punctured at the wrist.

Later in the day, work of remodelling the barn was resumed by Mr. Redding and Mr. Fitzgerald.

Mr. Forrest's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Forrest, who live with the elder Mr. Forrest, left several hours before the accident for Cincinnati, Ohio, and will be gone until the middle of the week.

YOUNG CYCLIST HURT IN CRASH

Ludwig Keller, 19, Suffers Head Injuries in Accident Today.

Thrown from a motorcycle when it crashed into a tree in front of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church, Baltimore street, Ludwig Keller, 19, Gettysburg R. 4, suffered a severely lacerated right ear and a cerebral concussion at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon. The cyclist was taken to the Warner hospital where he received treatment after which he was discharged.

Keller, according to Officer C. M. Spence, who investigated, rode from West High street into Baltimore street at high speed, with the intention of going south on Baltimore street.

The speed of Keller's 'cycle took him across the street, the officer said, directly in front of a car driven by Kenneth Johns, Steinwehr avenue, traveling north on Baltimore street. Johns applied his brakes and did not hit the cyclist.

Thomas Deets, Locust Grove camp, Taneytown road, told Officer Spence that the rear tire of Keller's motorcycle blew out as the youth's machine rounded into Baltimore street, and that the driver seemed to lose control.

Harry B. Bender, Baltimore street, and John Gulden, 22 Breckenridge street, also were eye-witnesses to the accident.

A passing motorist from Littlestown took Keller to the Warner hospital where he was admitted as a patient.

The youth's motorcycle was damaged.

RELY ON FAITH IN CHRIST IS PASTOR'S PLEA

No Satisfying Influence to Compare With That of God Says Rev. Sternat.

TEXT SELECTED FROM PSALM 72

"Jesus Christ, the righteous king, is vitally important for all types of humanity. He is absolutely necessary for the fullest development of every human faculty," said the Rev. H. W. Sternat, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Biglerville, in his sermon Sunday morning. The text was taken from Psalm 72: "He will come down like rain upon the new mown grass, as showers that water the earth."

"Assuredly the rain falls freely upon all lands. It comes to water the crops of the rich and poor alike. It costs nothing whatsoever. Even so come the gifts of the Almighty. Similarly the heavenly Father freely sends the Christ unto whosoever will receive Him. How graciously Jesus Christ became the friend of rich and poor alike! He sat at the tables of the wealthy and he dined with poor publicans and sinners. Today he stands at the door of every heart whether the owner be rich or poor and knocks to gain admittance.

COUPLE SEEKS $5,000 DAMAGES IN CAR CRASH

Glen Rock Residents Start Action as Result of Accident In November.

ADAM DICKEY IS DEFENDANT

An action in trespass for $5,000 damages was instituted in common pleas court here today by J. Donald Swope, Esq., on behalf of Walter E. Taylor and his wife, Mrs. Susan I. Taylor, of Glen Rock, against Adam Dickey, of Sunbury, as the result of an automobile accident in East Berlin, November 16, 1934.

According to the plaintiffs' statement of claim, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were traveling west on York street in East Berlin, while a truck, driven by Dickey, was going north on Harrisburg street. The truck crashed into Taylor's coach-type car at the intersection of the two streets, the statement continues.

The truck was being operated at a speed "high, dangerous, improper and greater than was safe under the circumstances," the statement sets forth.

Both Ask Damages

As a result of the accident, Taylor alleges he suffered lacerations and contusions and an injury to his eyeball, as the result of which the sight in his eye is "seriously impaired," the statement avers. The eye injury will be permanent, according to the plaintiff's statement.

Taylor alleges he has been unable to work since the accident at which time he was earning $16 a week. Since the accident he has paid out $70 for hospital bills, medicine and optical attention, his statement contends. Taylor also alleges his car was badly damaged in the accident.

Mrs. Taylor alleges she suffered injuries, requiring medical attention, which cost her $36. She sets forth that she was making $8 and $9 a week before the accident, but that she has been unable to work since the mishap.

Taylor asks damages of $4,000, while his wife asks an additional $1,000 for her injuries.

The child suffered a fractured skull, a broken left shoulder, possible internal injuries and numerous lacerations and contusions. He never regained consciousness after the accident.

According to Officer George B. Aughinbaugh, who investigated the accident, the child ran into the right front fender of a car driven by Mrs. Marie Rosensteel, wife of Thomas Rosensteel, of Round Top. The woman was driving south on South Washington street at an estimated speed of 20 miles an hour, the officer said, and stopped her car within ten feet after the accident.

HEARD THREATS BEFORE AMBUSH

Witness Says Speaker Threatened "To Get" Brunos Last November.

Pottsville, June 24 (AP).—O. H. Bechtel, defending six Bruno kinsmen accused of slaying four men in an election eve parade, told a jury today he will prove Joseph and Philip Bruno were at a meeting at the hour they were alleged to have threatened marchers.

The former judge took but five minutes for his opening address.

Bechtel said the defense will prove the homes of Joseph and James Bruno were stoned the night the parade was ambushed in the nearby Kelayres.

He will admit, he concluded, that James Bruno fired several shots into the air when some men and boys attacked him with sticks and stones.

The defense also promised to show another man fired at the home, imbedding a bullet in a wall. The state has stressed finding this bullet.

Several witnesses testified Philip and Joseph Bruno were attending a G. O. P. meeting at the time the state witnesses said they heard the kinsmen made threats.

Mrs. Angeline Forke, a sister of Anthony Orlando, one of the defendants and a sister-in-law of William Forke, one of the victims, said she saw a woman give out clubs and stones at the democratic meeting before the parade.

"Tonight we will get the Brunos," a witness said a speaker said at the democratic meeting.

SENATOR'S SON HURT IN CRASH

Dover, Del., June 24 (AP).—Richard D. Schall, 22, son of United States Senator Thomas D. Schall, of Minnesota, and Russel Kerr, 33, of Dover, were injured in a plane crash at the Dover airport Sunday.

State police said their injuries were not considered dangerous. Sergt. Samuel G. Powell, of the Dover Barracks, said Schall was at the controls when the motor went dead just after they took off. An attempt to cut back to a landing failed and the plane was wrecked.

Injured Taken to Hospital

Sergeant Powell reported that Schall told him he owned the plane. It is registered in the name of Francis M. Phelps, of Washington, the officer said. Schall and Kerr were taken to the Kent general hospital. Later the hospital said they left with other persons and refused further information.

Schall's ankles were broken and Kerr suffered head and ankle injuries. They received first-aid treatment at the hospital and then were moved to Washington in an ambulance.

Forced Down Previously

Kerr is manager of the Dover airport. Schall arrived Saturday and planned to leave the ship here for a few days. A short time before the crash they made an unsatisfactory take-off and returned.

State Legislature Ends With a Record-Breaking Number of New Measures

Harrisburg, June 24.—The general assembly, wearied by months of political strife, ended its session with a sigh of relief at 9:06 o'clock Saturday night. It voted more than $125,000,000 in new taxes that will come out of the pockets of almost every Pennsylvanian.

The end of one of the longest sessions since the turn of the century came more than a day after the time previously fixed for adjournment. The session lasted 172 days; the last "day" was thirty-three hours long. Last-minute controversies over liquor and beer legislation and the state's means of sharing in the $4,000,000,000 federal work-relief program forced overtime sessions.

Taxes were a debate-provoking issue almost to the last. Concessions from both republicans and democrats in the last week resulted in a balanced budget for the next two years and assured aid for the state's 1,600,000 persons "on relief" until May 31, 1936.

Half for Relief

Proceeds of almost half of the new taxes are earmarked for relief. All have been approved by the governor, and become effective on varying dates within a month. With their estimated returns they are:

Tax on manufacturers, $33,000,000.

Six-mill increase in tax on public utilities, $4,500,000.

Six per cent net corporations income tax, $26,000,000.

Two-cent tax on each pack of twenty cigarets, $10,000,000.

Tax on documents, $3,500,000.

One-cent increase in the present three-cents-per-gallon gasoline tax, $22,000,000.

Tax on out-of-the-state corporations, $3,000,000.

Escheat tax, $1,000,000

Amusement tax, $6,000,000.

One mill personal property tax, $16,000,000.

State Income Tax

In addition to these issues, the general assembly approved an income tax, graduated from 2 per cent on incomes up to $5,000 to 8 per cent on those over $100,000. The governor estimated this will produce $25,000,000.

The proceeds of the income tax will be used to operate the schools, thus permitting a reduction in local taxes on real estate.

Pennsylvania has more than 200 new laws as result of the session of the general assembly.

Several hundred more acts remain before the governor. Thus far he has vetoed nine.

The total of 3,514 bills in the five-month meeting of the legislature set a new record, exceeding the previous high, in 1933, by 634. In addition, 341 resolutions were introduced.

Single Collector Here

An economy measure, to reduce the cost of collecting taxes in third-class cities, was enacted despite efforts in both houses to kill it after passage. The governor signed it at about the same time the house was trying to recall it. The law designates the city treasurer as collector of city, county, school and poor taxes in third-class municipalities.

The legislature also gave the state new milk control law, increasing the powers of the three-man regulation board and giving the governor authority to reject price changes.

Dozens of bills to liberalize the "blue laws" of 1794 were presented but only three, to legalize Sunday movies, polo and tennis in communities wanting them, rode safely through both houses. All await Governor Earle's signature to become law.

Under the movies bill, municipalities having theaters will vote this fall on the question of permitting Sunday shows after 2 p. m.

Too, the liquor laws were liberalized to permit over-the-bar sales in licensed places which serve food. However, the bar must be in the room where the food is served. Clubs were authorized to sell liquor and beer twenty-four hours a day, including Sundays.

American Embassy in Mexico Damaged by Dynamite Bomb

Mexico, D. F., June 24 (AP).—A bomb apparently made of several sticks of dynamite and caps exploded early Sunday in the patio of the United States embassy, making a hole about nine inches deep and breaking several windows, including one in the private office of Ambassador Josephus Daniels.

The ambassador called all foreign correspondents to his office Sunday night and informed them of the incident, which he described as "a matter which has no importance."

Government Takes Action

Mr. Daniels declined to inform local authorities of the bombing and refused to make a complaint. A policeman on duty at the embassy, however, recovered fragments of the missile and reported the explosion to police headquarters. The matter then was taken up with the foreign office. No one was hurt.

Foreign Under Secretary Cenicero, who is acting foreign minister, immediately asked Mr. Daniels to assist his department with the investigation. He also expressed official regrets because of the incident.

The ambassador told the correspondents he had received no threats of any kind and could not explain the bombing.

Daniels' Residence Next Door

The explosion occurred about 8 a. m. It was learned that an unidentified person or persons threw the bomb over the wall at the chancellery instead of at the residence of the ambassador, which adjoins it.

Heavy police reinforcements immediately were stationed at the embassy with numerous plain clothes men to guard the embassy day and night. The embassy is located in the Colonia Roma, a fashionable residential section of the city, and is near the hotel patronized by many North Americans.

State Department Informed

Washington, June 24 (AP).—The state department said Sunday night it had been advised that a bomb had been exploded near the embassy building at Meicco City but that "no importance" was attached to the incident.

The report said that about 8:00 o'clock Sunday morning a high-explosive package was tossed over a wall into the garden near the chancery. The detonation broke several windows, but beyond that did no damage, the departments was advised.

Monaco Has Economic Crisis As Tourist Tide Hits Low Mark

Monte Carlo, June 24 (AP).—Monaco, where fortunes are lost and won on the turn of a wheel, seethed with unrest Sunday in a national crisis born of the depression.

Despite the resignation of Monte Carlo's gambling czar, Rene Leon the situation appeared unappeased. An American syndicate, unidentified, is reported waiting until the situation is so bad it can acquire the gambling monopoly at a sacrifice.

The country's budget is unbalanced, hotels and shops are nearly empty and unemployment is widespread among the 22,000 inhabitants whose principal work is serving tourists.

Natives accused the Monaca Sea Baths Company, which has a gambling monopoly until 1963, of failing to do its duty by the country. It was specifically accused of failing to fulfill a contract under which the company is pledged to pay the principality 12,500,000 francs (about $612,000) a year. That and 400,000 francs a year from France for the privilege of free importation of goods are Monaco's chief sources of revenue.

The casino is reported to have borrowed 14,000,000 france to keep the "bank" at its customary 40,000,000 francs.

Where twenty francs formerly was the minimum stake at roulette five francs (about 33 cents) now are accepted. Visitors reported seeing less than a hundred francs on the table at some turns of the wheel.

Gambling receipts for the year ending March 31 were estimated at 70,000,000 francs, a drop of 24,000,000 from the 1931 figure. The company's stock has fallen from a 1926 high of 12,546 francs a share to 780 francs.

Badger Football Star Found Dead

Madison, Wis., June 24 (AP).—Mario Pacetti, star guard on the University of Wisconsin football team for the last three seasons, was found dead Sunday in an automobile parked in a lane two miles west of here.

A horseman discovered the body of the 21-year-old athlete from Kenosha, Wisconsin, lying in the car with a hose leading from the exhaust pipe through a window. The coroner said Pacetti had been dead about four hours.

Friends said Pacetti had been suffering from melancholia for the last six months, and that he had voluntarily entered a sanatorium twice. Physicians there said he had been recovering.

It was understood that Pacetti, who left the university last January, had received an appointment to West Point from Congressman Thomas Amlie, of Elkhorn, Wisconsin, and was to report at the Military Academy July 1.

Joseph Lawlor, recently appointed athletic director at the college, will also be one of the guests. The Rev. HOLD EX-AGENT FOR SHAKEDOWN

Trapped at Home of Oilman By Federal Agents; Gets Hearing Today.

Scarsdale, N. Y., June 4 (AP).—William A. Raybell, who was an investigator for the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission until his dismissal last week, was arrested Sunday at the home of J. Edward Jones, an oil royalty dealer.

Federal agents made the arrest upon information furnished them by Jones, against whom an injunction proceeding has been begun.

In an information filed by Jones Sunday with Scarsdale authorities, who waived jurisdiction in favor of the federal government, Jones charges Raybell with violation of Section 379 of the penal code, a felony.

Bribe Offer Charged

Jones charged that the former investigator, who once testified against him, offered to absent himself from the trial of Jones on charges of violating the Securities Act, and that in return for thus absenting himself Raybell asked for $27,500. Raybell also stipulated that Jones gave employment to a friend.

Raybell was taken at once to New York and late Sunday was placed in the House of Detention to await arraignment today on Jones' charges.

Efforts to get Raybell's side of the story were unavailing.

Wired His Home

The account of what happened Sunday at Jones' home recited that Raybell called by appointment and that Jones, on advice of counsel, had wired his home with a voice-recording device.

Jones had notified federal authorities, and two agents of the department of justice and an assistant United States district attorney were secreted in the house when Raybell arrived.

The agents, according to Jones, heard the conversation.

Raybell, Jones said, asked for a sum of money on the spot.

Hurled Money Away

"I gave him $20," said Jones. "He started to leave, and when he opened the door walked into the federal agents.

"Seeing them, he hurled the money from him."

According to a story Jones told afterward, Raybell telephoned him Wednesday and asked to see him "on a matter of great importance."

Raybell was invited to call, and did so Friday night, Jones said. No request was made at that time, he added.

been fully surrendered to Him is bound to be inconsistent. But the consecrated soul that is dominated by Christian principles and thereby makes Christ supreme within is positive and constant. We need the spirit of Christ to guide, to mold, to motivate and to save us now. Let the needs of the thirst earth remind you of your own great need and then shall your soul thirst after God even as the deer does for the water brooks."

Continuing the Rev. Mr. Sternat said: "Many a human wreck has been salvaged by Jesus Christ and made a blessing unto multitudes. There is no strengthening, beautifying, enheartning and satisfying influence in all this world to compare with the blessings of the person of Jesus Christ in the human heart.

"'He will come down' is the promise. 'He will come down even to you and me' like rain upon mown grass, yes, 'as showers that water the earth.' Freely God meets our greatest needs in and through his son, Jesus Christ, our Lord. In Him our lives shall be renewed, enlarged and beautified. Let us cease our foolish pining, our vain striving and our useless agonizing. Let us rely by faith upon the Master whom so many merely profess but fail to serve. When we turn sincerely unto Him we shall assuredly be blessed and increasingly bless those round about us. This is the gospel, the good news, without which our sorely tried and sadly confused world will surely die. Let us arouse ourselves, repent, believe and taste the joys of Christian living and salvation."

out a license to give a supper is certainly unfair competition with the restaurants who are paying taxes on their property and which must be inspected," the report goes on. "It is no wonder, therefore, that the Communistic element despises the Christian Church for its unethical methods."

The report is signed by the Rev. Dr. Ellis B. Burgess, president of the Synod, and the Rev. Paul Andrew Kirsch, secretary of the Home Missions Committee.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie Moore's employer, Mark Albery, the airplane manufacturer, is much interested in her. Laurie goes to Liverpool to see her showgirl sister Gladys, and on the way back is irked by the offhand comment of a strange young man in the train who saved her from falling out of the train. Now the young man is telling Albery that he is Rex Moore, Laurie's husband who had crashed and apparently been lost trying to fly the Pacific.

Chapter Five

"MY—WHAT?"

"Where did you crash?" demanded Albery of the returned Rex Moore. "Who found you?"

"Crashed in a typhoon somewhere near the Marquesas Islands. I did the first hop to Fiji in fine time. And the next one, too. Then I struck a bad patch, the worst one I ever knew. It was no good. I was helpless. I wasn't forced down—I was hurled down.

"Don't remember much about it. Don't know why I wasn't smashed to pieces. Must have been unconscious for days. I had been picked up by a yacht and was taken to California. They told me the storm died down as quickly as it had come up. The people who owned the yacht looked after me for more than a year."

"But why didn't you send word home?"

"Didn't feel like it. They were decent folk and kept it dark. I was a useless log. What was the good? Better that you should think me dead."

"You always were a queer chap. But after you recovered your sight?"

"I was down and out—a bit mad, I think. I owed my life, my eyes, to those people. But I gave them the slip and made my way to New York somehow or other and picked up a bit of a living there."

"Did you fly under another name?"

"No, I didn't fly at all. I thought I was through with that. I—I just picked up a living."

"Why have you come back now?"

"Because I had to. I got a change of heart." He gave a bitter little laugh. "I told myself I'd been a fool, doing nothing but just cursing because I'd had bad luck. I thought of you Mr. Albery. I thought you might give me another chance. I'll all right now. I can trust myself. I want to carry on, if you don't think I'm too much of a crook and too old for the job."

"I'm so glad to see you I don't know what to say," was Albery's warm reply.

And, then, abruptly, he fell into silence.

He remembered, how, only a few days ago, he had said to young Mrs. Moore in his office, "I sometimes wonder if you still hope against hope that he might come back?"

And here he was, standing before him. Rex Moore, her husband, back from the dead. In the amazement and shock of the scene he had not thought of the girl before. That made it more incomprehensible than ever. The young man must evidently have gone off his head for a while. And no wonder.

"Moore," he said, "haven't you let anybody know that you're back in England—alive?"

"No; I hate fuss. Somebody might have remembered me. I'd have had to tell this silly yarn a thousand times. I've been in London a week, just trying to get used to it."

"But, my dear boy, haven't you tried to get in touch with your people?"

"I have no people. You've forgotten that."

But haven't you tried to get in touch with your wife?"

"My—what?" The young man's back was turned to Albery. He was finishing a whisky and soda in which they had been celebrating his return. It sounded rather as if he were choking.

"Your wife. It's the most extraordinary thing—your wife is working for us at the office. It almost seems as if we were both dreaming, doesn't it? But we're not!"

Rex Moore turned his eyes on Albery's face in a hard stare. For a moment they really looked like the eyes of a blind man, but Albery did not notice that.

He told the airman in a few rapid words how his young wife, believing herself his widow, of course, had been in a rather bad way out in Australia, and had been discovered by his friend and colleague in Sydney and sent home, and how ever since she had been a valued member of the London office staff.

"I suppose, my dear boy, you thought she was still in Australia!" he concluded.

"I didn't know she was in England," was the slow reply.

"We were so glad to do what we could to help her. Of course, you mustn't blame yourself; you hadn't time to make a will, or anything like that. You'd only just been married, hadn't you, when you took off?"

"I hadn't anything to make a will with," was the answer. It sounded rather callous to the older man.

But, then, Moore had always been a funny short of chap. Not much social and domestic side to him. Albery had been astonished to hear that he had married, although there had been rumors, he knew, in Australia, where he had spent several months preparing for his great flight.

"This is a bit of a shock to me—my wife being here and working for you," Moore went on. "It certainly is extraordinary. I'm sure it's very good of you to have looked after her." His face wore a curious fixed expression that Albery took for remorse.

"I can guess. It rather brings it home to you that you left the poor girl without news of yourself all this time. It might have caused a lot of trouble. She has thought herself a widow."

"You're right, it might have made a lot of trouble," said the airman thoughtfully. "I'm rather overcome I apologize if I seem foolish."

"Joy doesn't kill," answered Albery smoothly. But in his own mind there was an unpleasant reaction. Laurie Moore was Moore's wife now; not his widow. Quite a different thing. There was a sudden crisis in his brain, a wave of angry heat, the first pang of jealousy of his life.

"Now, you will be off to see her. We can talk business tomorrow. Of course, you must get back to your job. I'll be behind you. Don't worry about that! There are still a few records unbroken—and the Pacific is always there!"

"Do you know her address?" asked the airman.

Laurie gets a terrbile shock, tomorrow.

Girl, 19, Dies After Assault; Man Is Held

Peoria, Ill., June 24 (AP).—Confronted by the torn and bloody clothing of his alleged victim, Gerald Thompson, 25-year-old tool maker confessed that he assaulted Mildred Hallmark, 19, and left her to die in a cemetery roadside ditch. The girl's body was found Monday. Thompson was taken into custody on a tip allegedly furnished by someone residing in the same house. He was questioned more than 24 hours during which lie detector tests were used.

The alleged confession quoted Thompson as saying he offered the girl a ride in his automobile when he saw her waiting in the rain for a street car, knocked her unconscious with his fist, drove to the cemetery and assaulted her and then threw her into the ditch. The girl died of a broken neck, a coroner's jury reported.

Thompson was taken to the jail at Springfield, Illinois, to thwart possible violence before the confession was announced.

German Reports Say 102 Died in Explosion

Berlin, June 24 (AP).—It was officially announed Saturday that 102 persons lost their lives in the munitions factory explosion at Reinsdorf, June 13, and that 723 were injured, 95 of them seriously. Previously, the official death toll had been placed at 60. Sixty-eight died instantly, the official announcement said, and 34 were still missing after nine days of searching the debris for their bodies. Of those seriously injured it was feared a number may die.

The territory around the Westfalian-Anhalt works where the explosion occurred still was isolated today by secret police and it was reported that government workers had not yet cleared the debris.

26 Newlyweds Are Placed on Relief

Duluth, Minn. (AP)—No less than 26 newlyweds were discovered during an investigation of approximately 100 new relief cases, reports the St. Louis county poor commission.

One "enterprising" young man earned $30 shoveling snow during February, used the money to get married and pay a month's house rent. Then he applied for relief.

Gettysburg moved a step closer to the first half championship of the Adams county independent baseball league by winning both games from Midway over the week-end, winning Saturday on the local diamond, 10-2, and repeating at Midway, 10-4.

Paced by Manager Sadler, who rapped out three safeties, the locals won Saturday's tilt in easy fashion. Gettysburg pounded the offerings of Humbert for thirteen safeties, including five doubles. Kennell rammed out a blow good for three bases in the eighth, but failed to touch first base and was rtired.

Bob Miller hurled in fine style and never once allowed the Midway sluggers to become dangerous. He fanned eight men and did not issue a pass.

In the game at Midway the hard-hitting local tribe knocked Bender from the mound in the first inning with a 4-run assault. Raff collected three safeties and Roddy two to lead the batting list for the victors.

Cashtown Wins

"Lefty" Bohn enjoyed an early lead and turned back the enemy in easy fashion. Midway's only scores came in the fourth and ninth frames, when they tallied a pair of runs.

Cashtown and Bendersville staged a thrilling battle at Cashtown before the home club won out, 11-10. Bendersville got off to a good lead led 9-3 going into the last of the sixth, but Cashtown put on a 7-run attack to forge into the front. Bendersville knotted the count in its half of the eighth, only to have Cashtown come back with a run in the ninth to score victory.

J. Bream was the star of the game with two singles, a double and a home-run. Hartman pounded out two singles and a triple.

Fairfield retained second place in the circuit when Emmitsburg forfeited. The Marylanders have hooked up with the Frederick county league and a league meeting will be held Friday, at which time it is expected Arendtsville will be given the opportunity of taking Emmitsburg's vacated berth.

Thaddeus Stevens, in a recent speech opposing an increase in the army (called for on the pretense that it was necessary to prevent Indian hostilities,) said: "He believed that there was a greater necessity to keep a watch over and check the outrages and crimes of White Men than there was to exercise precautions to keep down the Indians." True as gospel!

The last account from Sicily is that Garibaldi has taken the city of Palermo after a desperate combat, the royal palace was burnt by the populace, and that the insurrection was spreading in Sicily.

The pleasant village of New Oxford is looking up very much since the iron horse has made his appearance in their midst. A large number of fine buildings have been erected, and are in progress, in and around the town. Among them we mention that of J. S. Gitt, John R. Hersh, A. F. Gitt, J. C. Ellis, Wm. Fieser and Wm. Blair. A new Lutheran church is also in process of erection.

Read the Bible With Us Daily

And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heavens from God,

Having the glory of God: and the light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal;

And had a wall great and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel:

On the east three gates; on the north three gates; on the south three gates; and on the west three gates.

And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and in them the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

And he that talked with me had a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof.

And the city lieth foursquare, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal.

And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of man, that is, of the angel.

And the building of the wall of it was of jasper: and the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass.—Revelation 21:10-18.

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—

HE CLIMBS HIGHEST

A FAVORITE sentence of mine for years has been: "He climbs highest who helps another up!"

No one can permanently succeed who concentrates all his efforts merely upon his own success, and upon gaining for his own reward. The great industrial chiefs long ago learned that there must be a measure of co-operation and consideration for the least of their helpers. And those concerns have grown strongest and have been the most successful where all helpers have been given decent hours and wages commensurate with wholesome living.

Selfishness gives way only by degrees, in many cases, but men have learned that it is "good business" to treat their helpers fairly and honorably, and to share their profits with them. The coming years will be worked out along co-operative lines as never before. Happiness is a result of sharing.

It is inspiring to talk with a man who has known bitterness and intense struggle, and come out of it clean and rich in success. He will tell you that he owes most of his success to the fact that he was allowed to grow and to develop—and was given encouragement all along the line by many higher up than he.

Carnegie used to talk of the ones whom he had lifted from small positions to ones of large responsibility as "my boys." No able man can build without the aid of other able men.

A bit of encouragement at the right time has been the turning point in many a life. "Yon can" has influenced more men and women than any other two words, I would say. We need others to believe in us—and others, as well, need that same belief from others.

I would like to see an "endless chain" letter sent out where the recipient would promise to say at least one encouraging word to someone for that day and get five others to agree to the same plan—rather than asking him to join some scheme for getting money by sending out money himself.

We cannot buy our way to happiness. But we can climb higher and higher—by helping others to climb with us. It will mean more to the world for people to share their happiness and to give away encouragement than all the schemes and plans for divising material wealth.

EFFORT IS MADE TO SAVE YOUTHFUL TRIPLE SLAYER

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 24.—A last-minute effort to save Delbert Green, youthful triple slayer, from execution before a firing squad Wednesday, was planned Sunday by his attorney, Arthur Woolley, of Ogden.

An application for a sanity hearing, Green's only recourse except an appeal to the United States supreme court, was to be filed today in the Third district court, Woolley said.

Green chose the firing squad rather than hanging after his conviction of murdering his uncle James Green, in a family quarrel

MAID CHARGED WITH SLAYING

Wealthy Young Broker and Sportsman Believed Killed By Domestic.

New York, June 24 (AP)—A pretty housemaid was held without bail Sunday on a first-degree manslaughter charge growing out of the mysterious death of John L. Burness, 30-year-old wealthy Long Island broker and sportsman.

Miss Dorothea Kassady, 20, daughter of a Uniontown (Pa.) miner, was held on the manslaughter charge and her friend, Irene Brozovic, 19, also a Uniontown miner's daughter, was detained as a material witness for the grand jury next Thursday.

Climax Of Inquiry

The arraignment of the two domestics, who shared a room in the luxurious Atlantic Beach home of William Brown, where Burness' body was found Saturday, was the climax of a night of investigation by Martin W. Littleton, district attorney of Nassau county, Police Inspector Harold R. King and Lieutenant Jesse Mayforth.

Littleon said the Kassady girl signed a statement admitting striking the broker on the head with a hammer in the Brown garage and leaving him to breathe carbon monoxide fumes of his host's expensive car.

The statement given to police by Littleton and King said that Miss Kassady, irked because Burness would not give her a promised $5, turned on the motor of the car and locked the garage doors after leaving Burness unconscious from the hammer blows.

Allegedly Left Motor Running

Leaving the unconscious boker in the closed garage with the car motor running, Miss Kassady then returned to the house, King quoted her as admitting. Later she notified neighbors and Irene, who brought the body to the driveway.

A confusing note was injected into the case by Dr. Howard W. Neaill, noted pathologist, who performed the autopsy. Dr. Neaill said marks on Burness' face, thought by police to be a result of the hammer blows, were inflicted after Burness' death from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police were inclined to believe that because of the broker's heavy shock of hair, the alleged hammer blows made no mark.

Burness was visiting Brown while the latter's wife was away. Burness was single.

in which he also killed his wife and Mrs. James Green, who was his wife's mother. State law gave him the alternative of shooting or hanging.

The killing occurred five years ago. Green's case has been dragging through the Utah courts since.

Building Boom in Manchoukuo Passes

Dairen, Manchuria (AP)—The nationwide program of construction launched in Manchoukuo following the establishment of the new state will begin to taper off this year, government officials believe.

Construction projects planned for 1935 are expected to cost about $40,000,000 as compared with last year's total of around $50,000,000.

A substantial part of the outlay for construction has been spent in Hsinking, the national capital, where a new city is in the making.

Hawaii's Swimmers Will Assist U. S.

Honolulu, T. H. (AP). — Hawaii, home of the hula and swimmers who put the fish to shame, is raising a grand new crop of aquatic stars to further United States hopes in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin.

George "Dad" Center, veteran swimming instructor, says he has never seen such promising material in his 27 years of coaching.

The man who coached the American Olympic swimming team at Antwerp in 1920 and developed the one and only Duke Kahanamoku is now imparting his knowledge to a class of 300 pupils.

Center believes Japan again will be the nation to beat in the '36 Olympics and looks for Holland to produce a strong girls' team.

Millions have also gone into railroad building, which will be carried on at a reduced pace this year, now that "key" lines have been completed.

Have you found the SUNNY PACKAGE on your grocer's shelf?

It's a delicious ready-to-eat cereal. Millions of Americans have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, effective means of correcting common constipation—the kind caused by lack of "bulk" in the menu.

Laboratory measurements show that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in this tempting cereal is more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables—because it resists digestion better. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this cleans out the intestinal waste.

Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If this fails to give relief, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or cook into appetizing recipes. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

PETUNIA SCENT ADDS CHARM TO NIGHT GARDENS

White Varieties Attractive And Become More Fragrant After Sundown.

LILIES RESTFUL AT EVENING

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another of the interesting articles appearing, illustrated, in the Sunday New York Herald-Tribune, written by the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Karl Grimm, Baltimore street, Gettysburg, an outstanding authority on landscape architecture and flower-culture. Petunias are popular hereabouts and Miss Grimm's article will be particularly interesting to all local flower culturists.)

By GISELA GRIMM

THERE are many garden owners who have little leisure to enjoy the garden save in the evenings. Even those who have enjoyed the garden by day will find that it has added charms after sundown. For on a summer evening an air of peace and restful beauty hovers over the blooming plants.

White and light-colored flowers, particularly those of distinctive form, stand out after dark, and should be included in every garden which is to be enjoyed in the evening. It is a pleasure to walk along a path bordered with ribbons of sweet alyssum, with stiff, white gladioli and gracefully bending Nicotiana standing out among the darker flowers in the beds. However, it is not advisable to plant a garden entirely of white flowers, for it will be monotonous by day and at night also; white flowers are more effective when outlined against a darker mass of flower and foliage.

Fragrance An Evening Asset

Fragrance, as well as beauty of flower, plays a large part in the enjoyment of the garden at night. Many white flowers are intensely fragrant. Some flowers are more sweet at night than during the day. The scent of the common petunia is more pleasing by night and a bed of white ones is very cool and lovely. The night-scented stock (Matthiola bicornis), an inconspicuous, bedraggled-looking flower by day, fills the night air with its delicious perfume. A few plants should be planted in an inconspicuous place among the shrubs or in the back of the border.

The tuberoses also are more fragrant at night. A few bulbs of either the double variety, Double Pearl, or the more graceful, single Mexican Everblooming, should be planted near the porch or the garden bench. The bulbs should not be planted out until the weather has become warm, and in the North they should be taken up in the fall and stored in a frostproof place over winter.

Many Varieties Suitable

A variety of material is available for planting a garden for evening enjoyment. In the spring, light-colored tulips, hyacinths, lilies-of-the-valley, white lilies, spireas and wistaria make a garden of fragrance and beauty by night as well as by day. It is later in the summer, however, after the nights have become warm, that one most enjoys the evening garden. It is pleasant to rest under an arbor covered with the Silver Moon rose, the Silver Lace vine (Polygonum auberti) or Clematis paniculata, with foamy white flowers, in late summer.

Among the annual vines, the white cup-and-saucer vine (Cobaea scandens alba) and the moonflower (Ipomoea grandiflora) are unusually fine. The moonflower blooms only on dull days and after sundown, when the large, fragrant, saucer-shaped flowers attract the beautiful night-flying moths. The seed will germinate more quickly if the seed coat is notched wtih a sharp knife before sowing. Seed may be sown directly in the open ground or started in pots indoors and planted out after the weather has become warm.

Flowering Tobacco Pleasing

The flowers of the flowering tobaccos (Nicotiana affinis) expand after sundown and are delightfully fragrant. It seeds freely and is a valuable plant for partial shade. A succession of lilies, beginning with the Madonna lily (Lilium candidum) and followed by the Regal lily (Lilium regale), the white speciosum lily (Lilium speciosum album), the Gold-banded lily (Lilium auratum) and the Philippine lily (Lilium Philippinese formosanum, make a beautiful evening garden. Pale larkspur, foxgloves, hollyhocks, Shasta daisies, phlox, the white gas plant (Dictamus alba) and the white plantain lily (Funkia subcordata grandiflora), are especially lovely at night. The old-fashioned sweet rocket (Hesperis matronalis) is effective among iris and peonies.

Nothing adds more to the evening garden than the lily pool. The appearance and sound of water is always cooling and restful. It is interesting to watch the beautiful night-flowering water lilies open as evening falls. They remain open all night and close the following morning, although, if the weather is cloudy, they may remain open until noon. Some white Japanese iris are appropriate and beautiful planted along the margin of the pool.
